About the programme

This workshop on adult learning principles show you how to use training methods and techniques required to train adult learners, provide effective job orientation, and improve job skills.

Intended for

Trainers, managers, and consultants who want to optimize the training environment and training programs to effectively reach the adult learner and achieve outstanding results.

Contents

- How to understand how adults learn?
- How to differentiate among learning principles, learning styles, and organizing styles?
- How to identify the strengths and weaknesses of common adult training styles?
- How to communicate effectively with others who have different personality styles?
- How to gain and maintain trainee's attention and interest?
- How to better think on your feet and respond to questions?
- How to incorporate motivational communication techniques into training programs?
- How to improve your delivery and presentation skills?
- How to apply the concepts of accelerated learning into training programs?
- How to apply the results of an Adult Learning Inventory (ALI) in our training?

Training methodology

Teaching by group participation, case studies, demonstration and role plays probably describes the training methodology most accurately. Participants will be actively involved in the learning and be assessed on practical techniques during the programme.

Workshop outcome

On completion of the programme, participants should learn how to:

- Successfully apply the principles of adult learning in their training
- Understand what really motivates the adult learner and why they choose to learn
- Create more motivational and energetic training

- Make the most out of every training presentation by reaching all learning styles
- Select the best training and instructional method for every program
- Understand personality tendencies, adult development, and its implication on training and education.

As with all AICPT training programmes, we strive to effect actual change back at the workplace through effective and practical outcomes based training.
