

Australian Institute of Certified Practising Trainers (AICPT) is a professional body and a public company limited by guarantee which is registered under the Corporations Act 2001 with the Australian Government agency, the Australian Securities and Investments Commission (<http://www.asic.gov.au>).

Under Para 5 of the constitution submitted to the Australian Securities and Investments Commission (<http://www.asic.gov.au>), Australian Institute of Certified Practising Trainers (AICPT) Board of Directors is required to provide an impartial, third party endorsement of an individual's (the President of AICPT) knowledge and experience in education and training, and represent its members to government, the community and business.

To meet para 5 of the constitution, AICPT Board members need to provide the certificates of the Honorary awards, titles and Justice of Peace, Queensland State Government, Australia, appointment given to our President, Emeritus Professor Boon Ho Gary Goh and the accreditation details of the universities giving Professor Goh the awards.

This is in accordance with our constitution to be open and transparent to all our members and the general public.
